

*Seminar at Department of Government and Public Administration,
Faculty of Social Sciences, University of Macau, EUAP Macao*

NAVIGATING TROUBLED WATERS: THE PERENNIAL RESHAPE OF THE EU' MEDITERRANEAN POLICY

Speaker:

Prof. Fulvio Attinà

University of Catania, Italy

Fulvio Attinà is Professor of International Relations and Joan Monnet Chair Professor of European Union Politics, University of Catania, Italy. He is former Chair of the Italian Political Science Society (SISP). He held visiting professorship in numerous universities and institutions in Asia, Europe, Latin America and the United States. He has research interests in European Union politics, European foreign policy, and international security and has published widely on these topics in forms of monographs, edited volumes, journal articles, and policy papers in various languages. As the team leader, he currently conducts research projects about multilateral security, systemic crises and emergency policies.

Date: 27/06/2014

Time: 11:00 a.m.

Venue: P339, University of Macau

Language: English

All are welcome

EUROPEAN UNION ACADEMIC PROGRAMME
MACAO

